KIDS NEED KIWANIS.
KIWANIS NEEDS YOU.
If you, your company, organization or corporation are community-minded, you might benefit from being a part of Kiwanis. We are a global volunteer organization dedicated to serving the children of the world.

We offer individual and corporate memberships. Both memberships are ideal for people looking to build their personal leadership skills, network and make friends with like-minded people while serving children locally and throughout the world.

A corporate membership can be paid either by the company or the individual. Check with your supervisor or human resources department regarding your company’s policy. Your company can have as many corporate memberships as it desires. If a corporate member leaves the company, your company simply chooses a new person to represent it at Kiwanis meetings and events. The company continues to pay annual dues, but will not be charged a new-member fee for the new representative.

How it works

Your corporation, company or organization will be registered with Kiwanis International as a member of your local Kiwanis club.

A representative of your choosing is designated to exercise the rights and responsibilities of club membership on behalf of your company. He or she attends meetings, fundraisers and service projects, and is eligible to hold board or officer positions, and to act as the club delegate at conventions. If the corporate member can’t attend a meeting or event, another member of your organization can attend in that person’s place. The replacement will not, however, be considered an actual club member unless he or she joins.

Reasons to join

- You become an advocate for your company, representing its point of view in decisions affecting your community. For instance, if your company is already involved with a community project, you will have a chance to encourage your club to join the company’s efforts. Kiwanians often provide volunteers or help fund existing community projects.

- You help your company demonstrate corporate social responsibility in your community. Consumers today are conscious of where they spend their money and prefer doing business with companies that give back to society.

- Your company develops an affiliation with a well-respected service organization. Kiwanians are known and respected around the globe for their generosity and ability to bring people and community partners together.